

HOW ARE IDEOLOGY AND PROPAGANDA RELATED?

IDEOLOGY is a set of shared beliefs or a system of ideas that organizes one's goals, expectations, and actions. Ideologies can have positive or negative influences on a society. For example, feminism is an ideology that advocates rights and equality for women; and Nazism was an ideology that promoted harmful racist and nationalist views.

PROPAGANDA comes from the Latin for "propagate" or "spread." Propaganda is a tool or method of communication used to spread ideas and manipulate people's beliefs, attitudes, or actions to further a goal. Propaganda can be used to spread messages that may seem harmless (e.g., an ad that positions a product as the best) as well as more harmful ideas (e.g., political messages that persuade people to hate or blame others for society's problems).

List three examples of ideologies in history or in today's world.	List three examples of propaganda in history or in today's world? Note the communication methods and the ideas being spread.
1	1
2	2
3	3
How are ideology and propaganda related?	