I am a translator with a long experience in general translations, and, due to my studies in literatura and clinical laboratory, I excel in medical, literary translations and science in general. I have translated tow physics books and the Windows 7 instructions book. I have also published my literary work in English and Spanish. I have worked as translator English-Spanish-English, as well as a laboratory clinician in hospitals. I have generally worked with English and Spanish, although I know the French language very well since I studied in French since I was 3 years old until the age of 18.
