

INFORMED CONSENT

PSYCHOLOGICAL ASSISTANCE SERVICE IN THE INTERNATIONAL PROTECTION HOSTING PROGRAMME

1. All beneficiaries of the International Protection Hosting Programme must be psychologically assessed at the beginning and at the end of the programme for the issuance of a psychological report. A follow-up psychological interview may also be conducted while the beneficiary remains in the international protection programme, regardless of whether or not he/she receives psychological assistance.
2. The information processed during the interviews and psychological sessions is subject to the principle of confidentiality and professional secrecy, except in situations where there is a very serious risk to the beneficiary, third parties or the person providing the services. This information may be used for the processing of allegations in defence of their applications for international protection and for the issuing of psychological reports requested by the Ministries involved in the International Protection Hosting Programme, TARHIB, as well as the corresponding Provincial Brigade of Immigration and Borders U.C.R.I.F-1.
3. Regarding the psychological assistance sessions, it will be the beneficiary who will decide if he/she is interested in receiving them, after receiving advice from the professional and provided that he/she does not suffer from any serious psychopathology. Such sessions may be individual, group or family, at the discretion of the professional.
4. In the case of suffering a psychopathology of this nature, the beneficiary will be referred to the Mental Health Service of the Junta de Andalucía [Regional Government of Andalusia], in addition to receiving psychological assistance sessions in the organisation with the professional of reference in this area.
5. Beneficiaries of the entity's International Protection Hosting Programme must attend the psychological workshops and/or group sessions organised by the professional of reference, and their attendance must be recorded on a signature sheet.
6. Tools to facilitate the work of the professional, such as questionnaires or scales, can be used in any of the interviews or psychological sessions.
7. The psychological sessions may be held in the organisation's facilities as well as in external spaces or in the homes of the beneficiaries, at the discretion of the professional.

I declare that I have been accurately informed about the nature and purpose of the objectives and procedures used in the Psychological Assistance Service and I give my consent to carry out the professional intervention in the terms described.
