Summary

I am interested in exploring language through multiple mediums with the intention of sharing their unique narratives. For instance, how does language influence emotions and the other way round in different societies? Which methodologies are being applied after standardizing Indian Sign Language so that students don't drop out of school? How is language used in the media and politics in different cultures? How much indigenous wisdom is stored in our languages? How do people with intellectual disabilities communicate? These questions are not exhaustive. The idea is to be curious and not limited. Furthermore, I aspire to teach languages and create engaging tools to learn the same.
